HAVING determined to go west I now offer for sale my entire stock of China, Glass and Queensware, with the good will of the house and all information in my possession regarding the business. I have a new and well selected stock, in first rate condition and bought at low figures. Any parties wishing to enter into a good, safe paying business, now have an opportunity seldom offered.

The Fall and Holiday trade is now just on us, and an early buyer will get all the benefit therefrom. In the meantime I shall sell goods at retail and wholesale at almost cost.
G. A. MCCARTHEY.

THE POET'S RIVAL.

Across my lap the baby lies,
The soul-light dawning in his eyes;
I, bending, turn aside to look
Adown the pages of my book.

With flash of thought and fair conceit,
The fair lines run on rhythmic feet;
And sparkle fancies from the brink
Of this clear well from which I drink.

But sudden, all the poet's skill
Is dimmed by something sweeter still,
And all his dream's, high and grand,
Lie hid beneath a baby's hand.

I stoop to kiss its dimpled grace,
I turn to read my darling's face,
While falls unheeded to the floor
The broken spell which binds no more.

O glow of wit! O prayer of saint!
O brightest picture pen can paint!
O golden rhythmic rise and fall!
My little love is worth you all.

For soaring thought and winged word,
That pierce the sky like flight of bird,
May bring the joys of Heaven more near,
But Heaven itself is with me here!

—Mrs. M. E. Blake.

Fashions in Cigars.

"How will you have your cigars—stylish, colory, or is it flavor that you want?"

"Are there styles and fashions in cigars?"

"To be sure," the tobacco man replied. "Fashions and styles change in cigars even more than they do in dress. The judges of a really good cigar are very few, indeed. The average smoker buys a cigar through his eyes. Now, here is one," taking it from a glittering show-case, "that sells for five cents. You will notice that it is rich, dark, glossy and handsome. It has no quality, but a smoker is satisfied with it because it looks well, and, stuck in his mouth, it serves the purpose of a twenty-five-cent cigar. I remember when it was fashionable to smoke light-colored cigars, Claro or Colorado, as they are known in the trade, but now everybody wants a dark, colory goods. This has led to the use of coloring extracts, and Havana tobacco extract is now a staple article of merchandise in the trade. In shape the cigar manufacturers are controlled by mold-makers, who, in order to stimulate their business, are as inexorable in their sea on's changes as are the makers of hatters' blocks. Cigars are pressed into wooden molds before the wrapper is put on, and, according to the mold, the cigar is turned out to be thick or thin, dum y, pointed at end or entirely round. Smokers, as I said before, are attracted by appearance, and some shapes become very popular and have a great run; others don't take at all, and then the mold-makers get up another shape. As for quality, it is simply a matter of taste. Some men actually refer the taste of a nickel cigar just as an Irishman will cling to his clay pipe and 'nigger head.' But it is a curious fact that if a smoker once inhales the flavor of a fine cigar he loses all taste for a cheaper article.

"Yes; people are gradually becoming educated in the matter of taste, and there would soon be no market for nickel cigars if the ranks of smokers were not constantly recruited from boy cigarette smokers. Last year the consumption of cigarettes were 14,000,000 less in this country than the year before. This shows that recruits have been added to the ranks of cigar smokers. Perhaps you don't know that New York has become the largest manufacturing center of the cigar industry in the world. For the seven months of this year ending July 30 there were 441,236,000 cigars made in New York City. These, at $6 per thousand, yielded a very handsome revenue to the Government.

"The cigar industry is controlled by foreigners, and all have made money. Cigar-makers come principally from Germany; many are from Bohemia, and a few are from Belgium, Hol and and England. German cigar-makers are coming over now in large numbers, and are settling in New York at the rate of 2,000 a year. They all find employment at remunerative wages. A good workman gets $1.50 per 1,000 for making cigars, and he can turn out from 500 to 700 cigars a day.

"Tobacco is a peculiar plant. Every leaf differs. The more tender the leaf the finer the quality. No machinery has yet been perfected to supplant the skillful manipulation of the human hand, although there have been numerous attempts to make cigars by machinery. The essential parts of a cigar are the filler and the binder, which is called a bunch, and the wrapper. The wrapper is not the thirtieth part of a cigar, and yet it is the part which imparts flavor to the whole. A bad wrapper will spoil the filler and binder, while a good wrapper put on a poor bunch will make a very good smoke. The introduction of a new tobacco grown on the Island of Sumatra into this market has lately caused a great flutter in the trade. This tobacco is grown under the direction of a wealthy Dutch syndicate at Amsterdam, which employs coolies to raise tobacco on their possessions in the East Indies. The tobacco has only been in this market two years, yet it is gaining favor so rapidly that the importations of it have increased at the rate of 100 per cent. a year. In 1874 the total tobacco product of the Island of Sumatra was only 96,463 pounds. Last month 147,244 pounds alone were brought to New York. The Sumatra leaf is cured so well, and is so glossy and handsome in appearance, that cigar-makers eagerly take it. Its quality is very poor, but since four pounds of it will cover 1,000 cigars, where twelve pounds of seed or domestic are ordinarily used, it is much cheaper to use Sumatra tobacco when appearance only is considered, notwithstanding its duty of thirty cents a pound and ten per cent. ad valorem. Cigar manufacturers say that American growers of tobacco have become very careless in the cultivation of their tobacco crops. It requires one year of curing before the crop is ready for the market, and the '81 and '81 crops have been found so poor that in self defense the handsome Sumatran stranger has been given the preference. Lately the Tariff Commission, while at Long Branch, heard arguments of the suppression of this imported tobacco by placing on an additional duty per cent., or 100 per cent. ad valorem duty. Cigar manufacturers aver that they prefer to use Pennsylvanian or Connecticut tobacco if they can get it for use in cigars. The native leaf, they say, has the quality, but it is poorly cured and of bad color. The sorting of colors of Sumatra tobacco is gated with the most perfect nicety. There are, for instance, thirty-three shades of brown, comprising dark red, yellow and middle browns, and light and dark fallow. It is the nice arrangement of colors which causes the Sumatra tobacco to be preferred, and it is said that American growers might take a valuable lesson from the care and skill which characterize the coolie labor."—N. —A young lady in Philadelphia, who was wearing a handsome new dress, the sleeves of which fitted as tight as her skin, came near losing her life recently. In attempting to remove her waist the cuff of one sleeve was so tightly wedged against a blood vessel that circulation was arrested and she fainted. Her fall brought assistance, and the sleeve had to be cut open before it could be removed.

Political Depravity.

The American Register says: The Star-Route frauds as well as the corrupt methods of the Department of Justice, developed in the case, are the natural outgrowth and sequence of supremacy and long continuance in power of the present Republican party. Like the salary-grab law, the voting of back pay to members of Congress for past services already paid for, and raising the salary of the President to fifty-thousand dollars a year without any reduction of his perquisites of office which already exceeded seventy-five thousand dollars a year; like the Credit Mobilier, frauds and bribes, and their incidental perjuries; like the river and harbor bill swindle, and raising of money by taxing the salaries of public officers for the purpose of corrupting and controlling the elections like these and many other kindred practices, the Star-Route swindlers were among the natural results of the general demoralization, introduced into our political affairs by a political party coming into power in utter disregard of the Constitution, and the compromises and sacred pledges of the public faith upon which it was founded.

Can the corrupt methods, above alluded to, be made virtues by covering their perpetrators with factitious honors and laudation? Monuments erected at immense expense may be made to glitter with high-blown inscriptions to cover over moral delinquencies, but the rotten ulcers of political depravity cannot be hidden and concealed by monuments or mountains of laurel wreaths. The public records will remain, the infamy there shown cannot be expunged, and history will tell the truth to future generations, and brush away the cobwebs of false and fulsome laudations. And monuments, though raised to the clouds to conceal and cover up moral deformity in a public man, will only serve to make the facts for public history more notorious, and to proclaim the degeneracy, folly, and depravity of those who attempt thus to mislead public opinion and conceal the monstrous errors and offenses of vicious politicians by covering them with unmerited honors and monumental perversions of public history.

That there are many good men, and elevated statesmen in the Republican party, who scorn and eschew the corrupt methods of the party, we have good reason to know. It was the action of such men rising above party, acting with the Democracy, which gave the signal and sweeping rebuke to the Republican party at the recent elections. Let the good men of all parties unite, and put an end to such high-handed abuses of power as those above alluded to. The system of espionage and attempts to bribe the jury by subordinates, developed in the Star-Route cases are not surprising. The introduction of the Secret Service Division in the Treasury Department in course of time extended the use of detectives and their methods into all the departments, and especially that of the Department of Justice. So that the practice of "setting a thief to catch a thief" became general and made detectives of all subordinates. This has resulted in making the Department of Justice perfectly lousy with vermin in the form of detectives and and thieves. So that if Attorney General Brewster is really in earnest and actually wishes to reform his Department, in order to be thorough about it, he should make a clean sweep, and fully cleanse the Augean stable.

NEWS BREVITIES.

Dr. Schliemann has recently finished the erection of a residence in Athens which has cost more than $100,000, where he and his family now live.

There is only one Freemason in the present French Cabinet, but such prominent statesmen as Gambetta, Brisson, Cazat, Jules Ferry, Paul Bert, and Constans are members of the order.

The British possessions in Australia cover 3,075,000 square miles. The population, white and colored, number 2,835,954, by far the greater part being concentrated in a few cities. The debt of the colonies is already nearly $100,000,000.

The Isle of Man census shows that on April 4 the population numbered 53,492—a decrease, as compared with 1871, of 550. The number of summer and winter visitors during 1871 was about 75,000; last year the number was about 130,000.

The streets of Paris are lighted by 43,089 gas lamps and 426 lamps which burn petroleum and coiza oil. There are in addition 25,000 jets of gas in the buildings which belong to the municipality, and the total cost of lighting them is estimated for the current year at $1,300,000.

Thomas Alexander Hayes Robinson of Orrel Mount, Wigan, an English gentleman of wealth, enjoying an annual income of $30,000, was recently sentenced at the Liverpool assizes to five years' penal servitude for shooting a police constable, with intent to murder him. The officer was attempting to arrest the prisoner under a warrant.

The living of Eccleston, near Chorley, England, stated to be of the value of more than £1,300, has been conferred by a private patron upon a Mr. Bretherton, a B. A. of Trinity of College, Cambridge, who who was only ordained last year "What experience can this young person have," asked the London World, "and with what feelings must those who have grown gray in the Church's service read of his preferment."

A panic occurred the other day in a show at Yeoville Fair, in England. An African was exhibited as a specimen of the most savage people in the world, and when he had in his hands an assegai, and appeared to be forcing his way through the bars which divided him from the spectators to attack them, they suddenly rushed out in a state of terror, breaking down the front woodwork of the booth, smashing the musical instruments, and doing other damage. The assegai performance was subsequently suspended.

The scaffolding which has for so many months disfigured the summit of the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, is at length removed, and M. Falguire's sculptures, destined to embellish and crown the famous memorial of Bonaparte's achievements, stand revealed. The group, which if approved is to be executed in bronze at a cost of $100,000, consists of a female representing the republic driving a triumphal chariot drawn by four fiery steeds. In one hand is a table of the Rights of Man, and in the other the flag of liberty. The effect is most disappointing.

The Pope has been for some time past becoming more and more gloomily preoccupied by the general signs of the times in Europe. Those near his person affirm that he has recently written autograph letters to many sovereigns, urging them to rally all conservative social forces for stemming the current of radicalism, which menaces the destruction of the present order of society and all existing institutions. He also occupies himself in the composition of lengthy memorials showing the tendency of the present theories to throw back civilization into barbarism.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

THURSDAY EVENING, DEC. 7, 1882.

ROSSER & McCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

Now winter sweeps down
Like wolf on the fold,
And frost bitten people
Are shaking with cold.
And now you will see
The man with a cough,
A jolly red nose,
And his ears frozen off.

The river is rising.

RED ears and noses were blooming to-day.

THE mercury this morning stood at ten degrees above zero.

Hogs sold in Bourbon county recently for $5.90 a hundred pounds.

POMEROY coal sells here for ten cents a bushel and Anthracite coal for $8.50 a ton.

If you expect to vote at the city election in January you will have to pay your poll tax to-day.

THE damage by the recent accident to a Kentucky Central train near Falmouth, is said to be $28,000.

Books for the subscription of stock in the Building Association, are now open at J. James Wood's drug store, and also at the drug store of Mr. Geo. T. Wood.

THE shop windows are filling up with holiday goods. A brisk trade is expected by the merchants. To know where to buy consult the advertising columns of the BULLETIN.

MR. ED. NESBITT, of Owingsville, who was accidentally shot while out hunting near that place last week, was not wounded so severely as reported. He was struck by only four shot. His injuries are very slight.

"PINAFORE" was presented at the matinee yesterday afternoon by the Holman troupe, an audience fair in size being present. Mr. Fred Evans, as Ralph, was especially commended. "The Bells of Corneville" was rendered at night and attracted a large audience. It was much applauded throughout. The orchestra under the lead of Mr. Thorballin was also an enjoyable feature of the entertainment. The company left by the Bonanza last night for Lawrenceburg, Ind.

MR. ALF. BURNETT, the well known humorist, will give an entertainment in Maysville on the 16th inst., presenting many new and interesting features. Remalia, the great violinist and musical specialist is with Mr. Burnett, and will take part in the entertainment. The New York Herald says of him: "Remalia is the most amusing of all artists New York has ever had. Steinway Hall was well filled and Remalia enthusiastically received. DeBeriot's Sixth Air was beautifully rendered, and the Mocking Bird received a triple success."

THERE was a very respectable audience in attendance last night upon the lecture of Dr. Cottrell. The high expectation that had been formed of him as a lecturer was fully met. He happily combined intellectuality with a rich humor. He would startle with bold, daring thoughts, and then with fine action and happy hits set the house in a roar of laughter. Such a lecture would be of incalculable value to any people. It would help us to get rid of our prejudices and cure our narrow-mindedness and give to our souls a broad and happy healthfulness.

THE Inter-Ocean, printed at Denver, Col., contains a picture of Hon. William Breeden, Attorney General of New Mexico, and formerly of this city. The following sketch of his life appears in the same paper:

Col. Breeden is 41 years of age. He was born in Maysville, Mason county, of Kentucky born parents, but his ancestors for several generations before that were Virginians. When Col. Breeden was 12 years old, his father removed to Keokuk, Iowa, and three years later the boy was sent to school at Lexington, Mo. Soon after, his father suffered reverses which threw the young man on his own resources, and on the breaking out of the Pike's Peak excitement, he came to the Rocky Mountains in the search for gold. In the winter of 1860 he returned east, and, on the breaking out of the war, he entered the army, serving the Union in the campaign of Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky and thus appearing as a Union soldier on the very ground which had given him birth.

After the war, Col. Breeden spent over a year in Washington, part of the time as a journalist, and part of the time in practice in the departments.

In December, 1866, he was appointed Assessor of Internal Revenue of New Mexico Territory, and in February, 1867, he arrived in Santa Fe, to resume the Western career which had been cut short by his enlistment in the army. He held the assessorship until 1869, when he became Clerk of the Supreme Court and of the District Court of the First District of the Territory. In 1870, he was admitted to the bar, and in 1872, he resigned his office to go into practice.

In January, 1874, he was appointed Attorney General of the Territory, and was reappointed in 1876 and 1878. He resigned shortly after the third appointment, but was again appointed in January, 1882. He was twice elected member of the Senatorial Council—1875 and 1878—and each time he served as chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Col. Breeden's devotion to the Republican party, and the confidence which is reposed in him by the Republicans of the Territory, caused him in 1869 to be appointed Chairman of the Territorial Republican Committee, and he has held that position ever since, his triumph being the last, when Tranquilla Luna, was elected over great opposition. Col. Breeden was a delegate to the National Republican Convention of 1872, 1876 and 1880. In the last two, he was a warm advocate of James G. Blaine.

In his law business, Col. Breeden has gained a high reputation. His first partnership with Hon. Henry L. Waldo was formed in January, 1875. A year later, Mr. Waldo was appointed Chief Justice, but in 1878, he resigned and the firm was again formed as Breeden & Waldo.

As a business man, Col. Breeden has also achieved success. He is Vice-President of the Second National Bank, at Santa Fe, Director of the Albuquerque Gas Company, the New Mexico Town Company, and the New Mexico Publishing Company. His family consists of himself, his wife and four children.

Few men can point to a prouder record than this, and the success is the result of untiring energy. Col. Breeden's career, in fact, forms part of the history of New Mexico Territory.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Mrs. E. Barr, of East Maysville, we regret to say, is still very sick.

The Lexington Gazette says: A Maysville wedding which will attract a brilliant company will occur next month. The bride is Miss Annie Connor, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Judge E. C. Phister, and the groom is Mr. Charles Field Griffin. A thousand invitations have been issued and the ceremony will take place at the church of the Nativity.

SOME one makes the following statement in regard to William H. Vanderbilt's wealth: If Adam had laid by $100 per day and carefully husbanded the same up to the present time the amount would not equal the money value of the colossal possessions of America's railway king.

THE 59th annual meeting of the Maysville and Mason County Bible Society will be held in the Christian church, Sunday, Dec. 10th at 7 o'clock p. m. Addresses will be made by Rev. M. D. Reynolds and Geo. S. Savage.

MRS. LABOUCHERE says she parted with Mrs. Langtry on account of her continued acquaintance with a New York gentleman whom she did not believe in, and who followed the actress to Boston.

THE Committee on Ways and Means, by a vote of six to five, agreed to report a bill to the House repealing the tax on tobacco in all its forms.

THE state Prohibitionists will hold a convention at Louisville on the 19th of February 1883, to select candidates for all state officers.

Holiday Edition.

During the week preceeding Christmas the DAILY BULLETIN will be enlarged to a five column paper and an edition of one thousand copies printed and circulated each day in this city, Chester, Aberdeen and in the other towns adjacent to Maysville. We shall thus be enabled to offer the business men of the city who wish to advertise their holiday goods, the best and at the same time the cheapest medium for doing so. Our patrons may rely upon having their favors printed in six thousand papers during the week, all of which will be circulated where they will be of the most benefit to advertisers. Call and ascertain our rates. Contracts should be made immediately as our space will be limited.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan. 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.

Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.
KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.
Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL Druggists have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. 17td.

Obliging a Preacher.

Just back of Missionary Ridge, Chattanooga, while following the highway to reach Tunnell Hill, I came across a little church half hidden in the woods. The building was primitive, and the old darkey who sat on a log by the door was more so. After I had made inquiries about the route and was ready to go on he said:

"Better git down, boss, an' come in to meetin'."

"Do you hold services this afternoon?"

"Yes, sah. We am gwine to open in 'bout five minits, an' I 'spects de sermon will be a powerful one."

It didn't seem just right to be riding around the country on Sunday, and so I got down and took a seat beside the old man. After a few minutes spent in general talk, he said it was time to go in. I followed after him, and found myself the sole audience. I next found that he was the preacher who was to deliver the powerful sermon. He opened services in regular form and with all due solemnity, and then announced his text and began preaching. I stood it for fifty-five minutes, and then, as he had only reached "secondly," I waited until he closed his eyes and then made a slide for the door. It was no go. I hadn't gone six feet before he stopped his sermon and asked:

"Stranger, must you be gwine?"

"Yes, I feel that I must."

"An' you can't heah the rest?"

"No."

"Den I'll chop off right whar' I is."

"Oh, don't do that. You can go on with your sermon just the same."

"But you see dar' mus' be a collect-shun taken up arter de sermon," he protested, in anxious tones. "If you'll obleege me by takin' a seat I'll sing a hymn an' pass de hat."

I sat down, and when he had read and sang a hymn, he passed the hat, transferred the quarter to his vest pocket and observed, as we went out:

"I didn't git down to de moas' powerful part of de sermon, but if you happen 'long dis way nex' Sunday I'll giv' you de odder half. Dat quarter comes jist in time to encourage me to keep de good work bilin'."—Detroit Free Press.

Mr. Travers and Two Confidence Men.

Mr. William R. Travers tells the following story on himself, and vouches for its being a new and true one: As he was leaving his office on Thursday last a well-dressed man approached him and, greeting him very cordially, said: "How do you do, sir? I am very glad to see you. When did you arrive in the city?"

"E—er—e—ex—c—c—cuse me—me, sir," said Mr. Travers. "You—you have evidently mis—mis—mistaken me for s—s—s—somebody else."

"Are you not Mr. Andrews, of Poughkeepsie?" queried the man.

"N—n—no, sir; my name is Tr—Tr—Travers," he replied, whereupon the man, with many apologies, made off.

Mr. Travers quietly walked up Broadway, looking in the shop windows, as is his habit, when he was suddenly stopped by a man, who, rushing up to him, offered his hand and said: "How do you do, Mr. Travers? I am so glad to see you! I heard you were in town and have been looking out for you everywhere."

"Pa—pa—par—pardon me, sir," said Mr. Travers, blandly. "My name is not Ter—Ter Travers; I—I—I am Mr. An—An—An—Andrews, from Pok—Pok—Poughkeepsie."—N. Y. World.

—A curious problem has suggested itself in Winnipeg. There are about 600 cows in and around the city, and these produce 1,200 gallons of milk per day. Yet 4,000 gallons of milk are sold. The question is, how do the milkmen perform the miracle of selling 4,000 gallons of milk out of the 1,200 they get from the cows? The answer is said to be, "chalk, lime, salt, and Red River water."—Chicago Herald.
